Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Inductive Studies in Browning: For Secondary Schools, Colleges and Literature Clubs It has become necessary to make new plates of this book; and I seize the occasion to revise the editorial matter in the light of the experiences I have undergone with it, since the first edition appeared. The foot-notes have been Increased In number and have been restricted to explanations of the author s language; all purely antiquarian or historical comment has been omitted. The questions have, I think, been made more Inductive; each set of them has been Introduced by a short paragraph or two In elucidation of the poem under treatment. A number have been left out; this has made the lessons less cumbrously exhaustive and more teachable. The aim in making ready the first edition has been kept with still greater fixity; that was to furnish something definite for the pupils to do in preparing a lesson in Browning. Students of literature in schools are continually discouraged by lack of definiteness in the requirements made of them. Shall they be told...
